Re: Monopower Ltd Waste Licence Application for a proposed Plant at Killycarran, Emyvale, Co. Monaghan submitted by Q.E.D. Engineering Ltd on 20th December 2005

To: Secretary of Administration,
Licencing Unit(Waste Licencing)
Environmental Protection Agency
Johnstown Castle Estate
Co. Wexford

Dear Secretary

Following a recent enquiry to your office and telephone conversations with Meave Quinn, EPA, Monaghan and Marie O'Connor, EPA, Cork on behalf of the above group, I am shocked to learn that Monopower Ltd have made an application to the EPA for a waste licence for a proposed plant at Killycarran, Emyvale, Co. Monaghan.

In the course of these recent telephone calls it was agreed that there was no site notice on display at the proposed site when an EPA official visited it. I and other residents in the area can verify that there has never been a site notice displayed alerting us to the fact that an application was made and that we have a right to view the application and make submissions. I live next door to the proposed plant and several other members who live along the same road can verify that a site notice has never been displayed to date.

We see this failure to display a site notice as a serious breach of the laws concerning applications for a waste licence and following legal advice which we have received we hereby request that you declare this application invalid and inform the applicant that he must make a new application and pay the required application fee again.

I also wish to alert you to the fact that Monopower Ltd where Refused Planning Permission for this proposed plant by Monaghan Co. Council on 3/2/2006 and question if this is another reason by which this application should be invalidated. Please reply in writing to this request as soon as possible.

Yours sincerely

Annette McKenna
