Termon Abbey Resident's Association has concerns over the application of Boylan Print, reference no. 784, for a licence to carry out activity classified as 12.2.2: Surface Coatings.

Residents regularly complain of noxious fumes and a blue smoke emanating from the vicinity of the Boylan's facility and they frequently have to keep their children indoors and keep their windows closed. This is unacceptable.

To allow such emissions to continue, whatever their source may be, in such close proximity to a residential area could be regarded as negligent.

We ask the EPA to take our concerns on board when dealing with this application so that our residents can breathe easy.
