I write to you to express my concern and opposition at the recent proposal of Dublin Port to undertake a dredging project that will see 9.7 million tonnes of dredge waste into Dublin Bay.

As a Diver who is aware of how special our coasts are and how much they are admired by tourists I'm extremely annoyed that this plan is actually being considered.

This is Ireland's only designated biosphere. It has particular significance for our wildlife, recreational activities and brings hundreds of thousands of visitors to the area each year. It is crucial that this area is protected from potential harm caused by the dumping this amount of dredge waste.

Surely there is a better way to dispose of this waste.

Yours sincerely,
