To whom it concerns

It came to my attention that this email address could be used to submit a concern regarding the polluting of our environment .

Myself and my partner have lived in Ferrybank in an estate called Fíodh Mor with about four years. We foster children here in our home. We love being outside and active with the children we foster and with our two dogs. However, going outside comes with a risk and a high penalty if you're caught out . There is a high chance that while you are outside, you will be forced to suddenly cover your nose to try and block the smell that comes in the wind. I've seen children gagging and running back indoors. The stench is beyond appalling. I cannot put into words how despicable the smell is. And to think that these odours are being knowingly released into our environment is shameful. Ferrybank is a highly populated area- how do they think that this is acceptable? It's common knowledge that our air is obviously being polluted by the factory but it just continues on and on.

I can't count how many times I have passed one of the factory trucks on the road and watched nervously as cyclists wobbled dangerously ,trying to steer one handed ,the other hand over their nose and mouth. The odour is absolutely foul. It's a lingering , disgusting , putrid stench. It has to be experienced to be understood.

What can we do to stop this from happening on our doorstep?

Best regards,

Martina O Regan
