To whom it may concern

I am writing today to verbalise my concern regarding ABP in Ferrybank.

I have lived in Fiodh Mor since 2004 and since that time I have become increasingly concerned about the plant and the negative effects it has and is having on our local community.

The smell that emanates from the plant is disgusting and would turn your stomach. On a warm day the smell is that of rotting meat I have to close my windows and cannot put out a wash as the smell literally sticks to the clothes.

I have had the misfortune to be behind the lorries coming to and from the plant and can tell you I have had nausea and the smell remains in the car even when the lorry has gone. I have witnessed thick liquid spilling from the end of the lorry and was also in resident in Ferrybank when pieces of dead animals were left all over the road by the mortuary.

The thoughts that this plant may be expanding fills me with dread. We have 2 schools and a crèche in close proximity not to mention numerous estates that are being exposed to these toxic smells that cause nausea at the very least.

I kindly ask that my objection be noted

Kind Regards

Gill Corcoran
