Dealer did not know drug was illegal

A HERBAL cannabis dealer who was not aware the drug was illegal will get the Probation Act if he pays €200 to charity, Kilmainham Court has heard.

Brian Emerson's solicitor, Terry Hanahoe, said his client was under the impression that cannabis was not illegal in Ireland as he had lived in England where the drug has been de-criminalised.

Mr Hanahoe said: "He's not a wholesaler of cannabis. He's a guy who was passing it on to his friends."

Judge Patrick McMahon said: "He's destroying other people's lives. It's illegal."

Mr Hanahoe said: "Strangely, he wasn't fully aware of that. In England, the possession of cannabis was de-criminalised."

Emerson, aged 18, with an address at Woodview, Lucan, pleaded guilty to possession of cannabis for sale or supply at the above address on May 18 last.

Presenting Sergeant Neil Murphy told the court that a search was carried out at Emerson's house on the above date and €510 worth of herbal cannabis was found.

Mr Hanahoe said Emerson had been born in Ireland but moved to England at the age of two and returned to Ireland when he was 14.

He added: "In a sense, he was the patsy as he kept the cannabis for his friends."

Judge McMahon said he would apply the Probation Act if Emerson paid €200 to the GOAL. He remanded Emerson on continuing bail for one week for payment of the donation.

Ms Malone said: "My client made a very serious mistake which could have had very serious consequences. My instructions are that the plastic pellet shot by the gun would not even go through paper. The spring on the gun was particularly bad."

She added that her client had now completed his leaving certificate.

Judge McHugh said: "I'm satisfied it was a prank and a prank which happily did not go wrong. It could have gone wrong. He did plead guilty at an relatively early stage".

He dismissed the charge with the Probation Act.

The case has been before the court since last February.

The 17-year-old changed his plea to guilty at the hearing date two weeks ago.
