Eva/Brian,

Hope you are well and that you enjoyed your recent trip to Monaghan to view the ICW at Scotch Corner. After you left the Scotch Corner last Thursday we had a further meeting with Eamon Merriman to discuss further our proposals in relation to our ICW proposal to treat leachate from both the current landfill and the historic landfill. Eamon indicated that under our current license we are precluded from "importing" leachate from the historic landfill for treatment and in order for us to progress our ICW proposal our licence would need to be amended to take this into account. I know yesterday Eva that you indicated that the EPA were likely to conclude our current license review with the information presently available and that the ICW proposal which would involve importing leachate in from the old landfill would have to be addressed under a further licence review.

Would the EPA reconsider the possibility of addressing this issue in our current licence review (W0020-01) as having to initiate a further licence review could possibly be an expensive exercise which in the current economic climate is something we would like to avoid if at all possible. I appreciate that the current review has been going on for a considerable amount of time but we would appreciate if our ICW proposal and the requirement to import leachate from the historical landfill is something which could be incorporated within our current review.
